Upcoming Meetings

The December General Meeting will be on Saturday, December 17th. Please see the announcement on page 6 for details.

Hello long time club members, and welcome new members

As 2022 comes to an end, my tenure as your president also ends its course. However unlike most endings, I don't sail off into the sunset, but remain as chairman of the board which loosely translates to a non-voting board member who gets to hang out with the board the first Tuesday of every month, with the option to toss out outlandish suggestions at the drop of a TCVCC baseball hat.

New members- if you are reading the Prez says for the first time, you can go to our website and review our past 11 newsletters for the year, and also take a look at our picture albums on Flickr.

From my perspective, we have rebounded 100% from the inactivity caused by Covid in 2020 and some of 2021 and thanks to the stellar work of the 2022 Board members, we had some very interesting and fun meetings. It's very difficult to find new places in the area to visit as it seems that we have gone to most 2 times or more, but this year did provide some new and interesting ones. In addition, we added about 10-12 new members this year which is always critical in the long term success of the club. Granted there is still a month to go in the year, so I think we may add a couple more. We also enjoyed a spring and fall tour of new places.

Our fall tour that was planned by Sande Searle (Mike said he didn't help) went off with virtually no hiccups. The days of lost wheel covers (by me) was mitigated by travelling with a rubber mallet which I used at every stop to check the fit of the caps. My past flat tire mishap was offset by bringing a bottle jack, a battery powered impact with sockets, and a trusty mini air compressor. None of these were needed except the air compressor for Pete Bortnick's tire that had gotten a bit low.

A couple of malfeasances (10 cent word) were suffered by me. On one of the stops, I got gas, and although it was 93 octane, it had lost some of its oomph, and the next day I suffered some idling problems which were resolved by a simple clockwise turn of the flat head screw driver. My a/c worked like a champ on day 1, but on day 2 on the way to dinner, I turned it on, and was greeted by the smell of burning rubber. Don't get me wrong, I like burning rubber, but not when it is the compressor clutch giving up the ghost. I remember the last time this happened. It was in 2009 on I95 on the way to a show. Cooler dryer air offset the lack of a/c. The Joyces were also plagued by their nagging brake noise, but none of these caused us to ride home on a flat bed. Winning! Anyways a more detailed story about our adventure can be found in the newsletter.

The car show season has been off the charts, and although my love for car shows has dropped off significantly, I planned to attend 2 in November. One of them was a memorial to Mike "the striper" Scott. That was on Veterans day in Lake Park, and was a beautiful day for a ride in a classic. The attendance of cars were down, but the newly formed Southeast Florida chapter of the Pontiac Oakland club were in attendance in force, and having avoided being called to action as an officer of the club, I was able to hang out with them with nary a care. Such fun. The fun was interrupted with the past president of the Treasure Coast Chevy club Sam Mascia being rushed to St Marys hospital. Fortunately he was cognizant enough to leave his keys with local law enforcement, and later on the phone he gave them permission to release the keys to us. As luck would have it, Ron Ingles and Barbara McCalister had driven together, and Ron was able to drive his car home and tuck it away safely in his warehouse. Sam was fine, and tests were run and forwarded to his local doctor.

The other show was put on by Jim Serra (Cars n Coffee at the Elliot) at the Kane center for aging. It had all the ingredients necessary to entice me out of the house- free registration, short hours 11-2, and free lunch. On top of that the day was beautiful and out came the convertible.

It was limited to 70 cars, but there were definitely some squatters who had not registered. Denny Dahle provided shade with his tent, and the TCVCC members congregated under that for most of the duration. Club member Maryanne Arnone won the 50-50.

The next day was our November general meeting and the Italian fare cooked by Charlene Dahle was all that I was hoping for. I felt fortunate to be able to get a meatball and sausage because the TCVCC herd was feasting like the old days. The board members and officers were voted in for 2023. The only downside to the meeting was it poured all day, and even a diehard like myself did not drive a classic car to the meeting.

Next up is the Christmas Parade in Ft Pierce- Dave Brown is signing folks up, and on December 17th (Saturday) we will have our Christmas party. I'm hoping to see 100 people at that one along with their classic cars.

Thanks for a great year!
Andre'

TCVCC December General Meeting

Saturday, December 17th at 12:15

Port St. Lucie Community Center
2195 SE Airoso Blvd, Port St Lucie, FL 34984

Hibiscus Children's Center (HCC) is a shelter for abused, neglected or abandoned children who are removed from their home by the court. It is a 24-7 awake staff facility for children ages birth through 13 years old, however, siblings are kept together even if one ages out. The shelter houses children from Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee counties and occasionally will house from other counties as the need arises. The children arrive with only what clothing they are wearing – many arrive with no shoes.

Some ideas for gifts are:

- Gift cards: McDonalds, Movies, 5Below, Walmart, Target, Bowling, etc.
- Craft Supplies: Washable tempera paint, canvases, paintbrushes (painting is very popular)
- Games: Uno, Phase 10, Mancala, and other age appropriate games
- Toys, small lego kits (less than 200 pieces), Beyblades, small remote control cars
- Clothing: from underwear to shorts, dresses, socks, etc. Many sizes are needed as the children grow and as we get new children in (if not needed now, more than likely a new child will be coming in.)

Items that are always needed at the Shelter:

- Bodywash, shampoo, deodorant, AA batteries, small flashlights, sunscreen
- Bed linens for twin size beds and baby beds, towels and wash clothes

THINGS TO AVOID:

Anything with violent or sexual themes, guns or anything resembling a gun or weapon. Nothing that could retraumatize victims of sexual abuse, we don't utilize play doctor kits ("playing doctor") or small tents (nothing that groups children out of eyesight of the adults).

TCVCC General Meeting

November 20, 2022

by Sally Franklin & Larry Atkins

Our November meeting was held at the Vince Bocchino Community Center in Jensen Beach. The meeting was held before dinner and Club officer elections were completed. Then the feast began!

Dinner was an Italian buffet complete with meatballs, sausage and pasta galore. All prepared by our own master chef, Charlene Dahle. In addition to the main course, club members supplied tons of appetizers, bread, salads and desserts. It all combined to make for a fabulous meal. I don't think anyone left hungry!

Thanks to all the volunteers who helped with the setup and tear down of the center and thanks to everyone for making it a fantastic day.

Here are a few pictures to get you started. To see more pictures taken by Andre', click HERE.

FALL ART TOUR

by Andre Rayman & Sally Franklin

Our first Fall ART Tour started out in early on a Friday morning in Palm City, with 5 old cars and 2 new cars. We headed to Okeechobee where we would make a pit stop and pick up 3 more old cars. Some folks opted to enjoy some gas station food fare, while the facilities were more appealing to others

At our next pit stop, a random (to me) Marathon station, everyone assisted Pete in taking care of his extremely low rear tire. Apparently there was some difficulty with the air pump at the station and a portable air pump had to be used, a brand new one at that which was an item purchased after a previous tire mishap on a Cracker tour some years back. There were several folks here on motorcycles on a tour of their own observing our tomfoolery.

After taking care of Pete's car, we headed for Lakeland and lunch at the Joinery. The place was very popular, and parking was a bit of a challenge with most folks having to park in the back 40. It was quite a unique place, like a food truck invasion, only without the food trucks. Asian, Mexican, burgers, and others, but most importantly-ice cream, meant that there was pretty much any kind of food you could ask for. We were able to get some tables next to each other after Sam Mas-cia ran off a group of church youths who were trying to squat at a large table. We filled the void in our bellies, and headed off to our next appointment.

Our first tour at Florida Southern College for our Frank Lloyd Wright experience. Who knew this even existed!? They knew we were coming and had saved us some parking spaces. Generally this would not be a big deal, but it seems that this campus is always short on spaces and students are quick to pounce on any space available. Florida Southern College is home to the largest single site collection of Frank Lloyd Wright architecture in the world and is a National Historic Landmark. We rallied up at the gift store where we enjoyed the air conditioning and met our tour guide for the day.

He was a wealth of knowledge and showed us the ins and outs of the various buildings on campus with the finale being a house that Wright had designed for middle income families. The college had found these plans that had been squirreled away and was able to use them to build this example. Truly designed for minimalist living of the era.

From there it was a short drive to our hotel, and we were all pleased that our rooms were ready for us to check in even though we were a little early. There was no pool, but that didn't prevent the crew from gathering in the lobby and enjoying a variety of libations and snacks.

It was relaxing after a long 1st day of touring and gave us some time to decide what to do for dinner. We pondered ordering in, but then found that a local pizza joint was just a few miles away. We ended up at Wabash Pizzeria and Ice creamery, which had just opened up. Bet they don't have another day like this one! We filled the place up!

Day 2 of the tour started out on a search for murals painted on the buildings around town. There must be 100 or more, but we only saw a small fraction of that. As it was Saturday, the local green market was set up, and this created traffic patterns out of the ordinary.

Along the way, Andre's car decided to play with him. Random stalling out and generally poor idle quality. A few adjustments later and we were back on the road. Remember that Marathon station... well the food was good, but the gas was not.

After the mural scavenger hunt, we headed downtown to Harry's for lunch. We lucked into a parking garage just a block away. Initially it seemed like it was also going to be challenging, but ascending one floor we found a bonanza of spaces and were all able to back in neatly like some misplaced car show.

Harrys is in the heart of downtown, so as we were a little early for our lunch date, some of us enjoyed perusing the green market and purchasing random items. The food at Harrys is always good, and service was excellent. Back to the garage to retrieve our cars. In the short time that we had been gone, the garage was now filled. After lunch, most of the gang headed for the Polk Museum of Art. For others, Art would be in their dreams as they headed back to base for an afternoons nap. The museum was 2 floors with a variety of works on display. There were also comfy couches to rest on in between viewings. Quite a nice place, and definitely worth the visit.

What's next you wonder? Ice cream of course! The group was now a little smaller as we headed out to Kathleen for our afternoon ice cream. We took the opportunity to stop for gas on the way. (Shell Station) In just a few minutes after getting our ice cream, the place was overrun by two under 12 girls soccer teams that had won their games. We finished our ice cream and headed home to prepare for the highlight of the trip.

Apparently in a few Publix supermarkets, they have a small area called "Aprons" which is operated by Chefs who develop recipes using Publix products. It is set up as a filming studio show like "Gallopig Gourmet" or "Julia Child" The premise being that while you ate a course, they would show you what it took to make that. Each course was paired with a wine. As luck would have it our meal was based on German foods. We started with a pretzel that was accompanied by a beer cheese dipping sauce. Next was a German potato salad that was loaded with bacon. Third course was a juicy pork roast with vegetables, and the final course was of course a German Chocolate cake. There were also various cooking utensils available for purchase, so some folks took advantage of that.

The ride back to the hotel in the dark of night was an adventure, but we all made it back safely and gathered in the lobby for the finale of the trip with gift exchanges etc.

Day 3- After a leisurely morning we left the hotel and convoyed to a park near Lake Mirror. (site of the annual car show) As the park had not opened quite as yet, we found an adjoining eatery- Garden Bistro that provided a tasty grilled cheese sandwich with piping hot tomato soup washed down with ice cold lemonade. The park turned out to be just the right size and didn't have too much walking, and the weather was perfect. There were several brides taking pictures.

It was time to hit the road for the return trip home. Our group had shrunken in size since three couples had returned home the previous day for a variety of reasons. Off we went on a Sunday morning ride that led us to Sebring. Our first stop was to gas up at a local WaWa. (non-ethanol gas for some).

Then we were on our way to brunch at Fade Bistro. Apparently everyone in Sebring had the same idea, and the place was packed. Our wait was short, but we were unable to sit together. Food was good- Crab benedict (no muffin), Sweeter than sweet raspberry tea.

With that behind us, we headed down the road for home without incident. No wheel covers lost, no flat tires, no break downs...just the way it should be.
